'We can win the wars against suicide and self-harm'

By Dylan White e-mail: dylan.white@iconicnews.ie

'We can win the wars against suicide and selfharm' was the message delivered at the launch of Carrick-on-Suir, Dungarvan and Waterford city Darkness Into Light walks at the Tower Hotel in Waterford recently.

Darkness Into Light, which accounts for nearly 40 percent of Pieta House's budget, takes place across the globe on Saturday 12th May at 04.15am.

Now in its 10th year, the flagship fundraiser has blossomed from humble beginnings into a global movement against suicide and selfharm. Darkness Into Light kick-started when Joan Freeman led approximately 400 people through the Phoenix Park in Dublin in 2009, and it now takes place in around 180 locations worldwide, including in Carrick-on-Suir, Cashel, Tipperary Town, Thurles, Nenagh and Roscrea.

Carrick-on-Suir Darkness Into Light raised approximately €49,000 in its first two years and it is estimated that Carrick-on-Suir Darkness Into Light committee members Mary Power, Shauna Power, Karen McGrath and Hollie Hickey at the launch of the Pieta House fundraiser in the Tower Hotel, Waterford, recently.

1,000 people will take to the 5km route around the town again this year. Participants will start at CBS Greenschool, continuing onto Árd Mhuire, Park View, Ash Park, Castle Park, Castle Street, Dillion Bridge, Waterford Road, Woodland Heights, St. Mollerans, Hillview, Mass Road, Friary Heights, Lower Friary Heights, Old Bridge, Castle Lane, Main Street, Bridge Street, North Quay, N24, O'Mahony Avenue and returning back to Árd Mhuire.

"Suicide and self-harm are problems in Waterford and the South East and we need to face them together and that is what Pieta is all about," explained Waterford city committee chairperson Des Purcell.

praised Des Joan Freeman's vision and said the concept encapsulated what Pieta House is essentially about. "If I was in the room when she got the brainstorm that she was going to convince young people to get out of the feathers to walk at 04.15 in the morning, I have told her since half a dozen times that I would have thought she was off her head. Well, 120,000 proved that was nonsense out of me because that's how many walked last year and that number will grow and grow and grow because it just touches a vein," Des continued.

This is the first year that all walkers must register online. "Every other year up until now you could rock up at four in the morning, pay your money and away you went. The walk has become too big, there's too much money involved and the regulations have tightened," Des underlined.

'Darkness Into Light is a phenomenal fundraiser for Pieta House'

Mayor of Waterford City and County Council, Cllr. Pat Nugent, said Darkness Into Light is a "phenomenal" fundraiser for Pieta House. He praised the volunteers who have helped the unique event go from strength to strength. "It's a fantastic honour to be asked to launch the 2018 Darkness Into Light walks [for Carrick-on-Suir, Dungarvan and Waterford city]. It's a very important awareness and fundraising event for Pieta House," he told those in attendance, which included Carrick-on-Suir commembers Karen mittee McGrath, Shauna Power, Hollie Hickey and Mary Power.

"Darkness Into Light is about hope and hope is something we endeavour to give each person who comes to us in their time of need. We help them feel more hopeful about the future as we continue to tackle the grave issues of suicide and self-harm in Ireland," Mayor Nugent continued.

Mayor Nugent slammed social media for "taking too many people by storm". He suggested that "people are living in a false place" and urged today's generation to rediscover the art of conver-"[People] sation. are bringing their iPads and phones to bed with them and it's affecting their sleep and their mind as well.

"A lot of problems would be sorted out if people can just spend more time talking to each other like the Ireland of old.

"If this generation is taken over by social media and other modern media and if they don't know the art of conversation, what will their children be like in 20 or 30 years time? And that's why I think it's so so important to talk.

"A teacher told me that when some students come into school they actually show them how to hold a pencil or pen. When you go to that depth it's tragic. All of us have to stand back and try to improve this wonderful country," Mayor Nugent added.

Fundraising executive for Pieta House South East, Ruane, said the Olive walking and talking that happens at Darkness Into Light is invaluable. She praised the Carrick-on-Suir, Dungarvan and Waterford committees. city highlighting that the work of Pieta House could not go ahead without them. "The three committees here are closest to my heart. I am blown away by the volunteerism I see around me," Olive commended.

Director of funding and advocacy for Pieta House, Kieran Brady, emphasised the importance of fighting suicide and self-harm. He said Pieta House has helped 30,000 'friends' since its foundation, acknowledging the role of volunteers in bringing hope and support to those in need. "We are in a war on two fronts - a war against suicide and a war against self-harm. We are in a fight against stigma, we are in a fight against ignorance and we are in a fight when psychologically vulnerable minds are attacked and suggestions come into those minds that 'you're worth nothing and you'll never get out of this problem. There is no hope. There is nowhere to go'.

"There is hope and it's people like yourselves who have helped Pieta deliver hope to 30,000 clients since we were founded [in 2006]. Pieta is actually all of you with

Darkness Into Light celebrates its fifth year in Cashel on 12th May. The Cashel founding committee members - Declan Fitzgerald, Jackie Kennedy, the late Michael Purcell, Cher Quinlan, Bernie and Liam Ryan, Brendan Ryan, and Liz and Paul Quish - came together in 2013 in response to the rising number of suicides in the community. The new 5k route will be announced this month and a selection of photos from previous walks will be on display at the old Xtra-vision premises from Friday 6th April. Máirín McGrath selected for Washington Ireland Program

A Tipperary woman is feeling "humbled and excited" after being selected for the 2018 Washington Ireland Program for Service and Leadership (WIP).

Newcastle's Máirín Mc-Grath will represent Ireland and Northern Ireland as part of WIP, which selects 30 talented students each year to join its network of leaders and influencers by completing a 12-month programme of service and leadership development, including spending a summer in Washington DC and New York City.

WIP inspires and develops promising leaders from a wide range of communities and backgrounds through an exceptional programme committed to building a future of peace and prosperity for Ireland and Northern Ireland.

20-year-old Máirín, who is currently a 2nd year Politics and Law at Dublin City University, comes from a political family and has been involved in several community organisations, charities and campaigns. The Presentation Secondary School, Clonmel, graduate is the daughter of Deputy Mattie McGrath and has been a part-time member of staff for Cork South West's Deputy Michael Collins for the past year.

"I am humbled and excited to have been selected as a 2018 class member of this prestigious programme. WIP was originally founded to promote positive crossborder relationships between young people from different backgrounds across Ireland, but their work is as important as ever with the uncertainties surrounding Brexit and our unique Irish border. Each student has a deeply held commitment to look past differences and to resolve the pressing issues that will define the island of Ireland in the 21st century," Máirín says Taoiseach Leo Varadkar. who was part of the WIP class of 2000, recently launched WIP's New York Program and spoke about his experience at the Irish Consulate in New York City. "It helped me develop my view of the wider world...and without it perhaps I wouldn't be standing here today," he noted.

Selection for WIP 2018 was highly competitive, with 300 students from across the island of Ireland competing for the opportunity to be on the class and ultimately to become part of an active WIP network seeking to make a difference in their communities.

Cashel transition year students discover Franglais

Cashel Community School transition year French students recently welcomed back past pupil Sinéad Magner to facilitate a workshop on Franglais, which is the rising trend of the use of English within the French language.

"It was a great honour for the school to have Sinéad facilitate this workshop as she has excelled in her study of French since leaving the school in 2013," a school spokesperson said.

Sinéad's accomplishments began in her undergraduate studies in Maynooth University when she was awarded several prizes for her studies in French, most notably the prize for 'Best Final Year Dissertation', 'French Government Medal', the National University of Ireland prize for 'Proficiency in French' for her final year work, and the Dr. H.H. Stewart 'Literary Prize in French'.

Her studies of English and French included a year attending university in France. Sinéad is currently completing an LLM in Gender, Conflict and Human Rights at Ulster University. Whilst in Cashel Community School, Sinéad was taught by Ms. Lisa Williams.

Her workshop focused on the use of Franglais and how the French are now borrowing words from social media and fashion in English and integrating them into modern day French. The transition year students from Ms. Barry's and Ms. Tierney's classes were thrilled to guess what these words meant and to discover how to use them correctly and in context.

Throughout her workshop Sinéad actively promoted the study of and the importance of language learning in secondary school and at third level. The general consensus at the end of the presentation was "Je Like"!

Ireland South MEP Liadh Ni Riada recently visited Cashel Community School to address sixth year business, economics and accounting students about the European Union (EU). She was accompanied by local councillor Martin Browne. She dealt with areas such as EU policies, how the EU laws are created and the overall impact of the EU on Ireland since joining in 1973. Liadh also received lots of questions about the implications of Brexit on the EU as a whole and more importantly how it will impact Ireland. Catherine retires from teaching after 40 years service

The community of Rosegreen celebrated Catherine Moloney's retirement recently.

Catherine gave 40 years of service to the Department of Education and spent 39 of those years teaching at St. Thomas the Apostle National School, Rosegreen.

Mass was celebrated by Fr. Enda Brady, Monseigneur Ryan, Fr. Tom Hearne and Fr. Jim Purcell. The children from the school led the mass with their contributions of song and verse. This was followed by a reception in the hall where presentations were made on behalf of the school's board of management, the parents association and Rosegreen Players Drama Group of which Catherine is an active member. Catherine was described as being kind and gentle, fair and firm, and a teacher who always inspired confidence in the children in her care. Catherine spoke on the night of her time at St. Thomas the Apostle National School, the many changes she has seen and the great sense of positivity, friendship, professionalism and welcome that is ever present at the school.

All wished Catherine a healthy, happy and adventurous retirement.

Tipperary students win Gael Linn All-Ireland debating trophy

Talented talkers from Ursuline Secondary School, Thurles, won the junior trophy at the All-Ireland final of Comórtas an Phiarsaigh 2018 in Dublin recently, while students from St. Anne's Secondary School in Tipperary Town were runners-up in the senior debate. The annual debating competition was organised by Gael Linn for second level schools nationwide and there was a high level of entry again this year with over 150 teams taking part since the competition commenced last October.

The event started with the junior final, with plenty of debate on the timely topic 'Bheadh náire ar Naomh Pádraig faoin tslí ina ndéantar 17 Márta a cheiliúradh!' (St. Patrick would be ashamed at the way the 17th March is celebrated!). Teams from Sandford Park School, Ranelagh, Dublin, and Scoil Mhuire, Trim, Co. Meath, spoke in favour of the motion, while teams from Ursuline Secondary School, Thurles, along with St. Gerald's College, Castlebar, Co. Mayo, opposed it.

The large audience in attendance were won over by the persuasive arguments of the Thurles team - consisting of Zoe Ní Bhracáin, Rachel Ní Mhaidin and Jennifer Ní Mhurchú - who jumped for joy when they were declared the winners. Regular participants in the competition over the years, this was the first time a team from the County Tipperary school has gone all the way to the top. Teachers Áine de Barra and Beartla Ó Dochartaigh, who helped and guided the team on their journey through the preliminary rounds all the way to their final victory, were justifiably delighted with their students great achievement.

Later on in the day, St. Anne's Secondary School, Tipperary Town, contested the senior debate with teams once more from Sandford Park School and St. Gerald's College, along with De La Salle College, Dundalk. The motion up for discussion was 'Tá mórchúiseanna gearáin ag mná na tíre seo (26 contae)!' (The women of this country - 26 counties - have good reason to complain!). The standard was excellent, with plenty of point-scoring and rebuttal throughout. The adjudicators - Máirín Uí Mhuirí, Antóin Delap, Áine Ní Ghlinn, Féilim Mac Donnchadha and Colm Ó Néill took some time before choosing the winners of the highest award for Irish debating. In the end, the St. Anne's girls were pipped at the post by the Castlebar team, but as the saying goes 'Beidh lá eile ag an bPaorach'.

Guest chairperson for the event, author Anna Heusaff, recalled her own debating days and praised the skills displayed by the young orators. She expressed great interest in the views and opinions of all the participants on the topics deliberated on.

The winning teams in both the junior and senior sections of the competition were presented with a perpetual trophy and a cheque for $\epsilon_{1,000}$, and all the other participating teams received consolation prizes of ϵ_{250} each. Each speaker who took part in the debating final also received a part Gaeltacht scholarship to a Gael Linn Summer College of their choice.

Gael Linn CEO Antoine Ó Coileáin thanked the teachers who inspire their students to take part in the competition year on year. "The Gael Linn debates are very popular with schools because they give students the Bliain na Gaeilge and the debate participants show that we can look forward to the future with hope and confidence," she added.

Past participants in Gael Linn debating competitions down through the years include a host of high profile journalists and broadcasters such as Claire Byrne, Marian Finucane, Mary Kennedy, Evanne Ní Chuilinn and Harry McGee. Many have credited the Gael Linn debates with fostering their love of Irish and giving them confidence in public speaking.

TIPPERARY TEENAGERS GET CREATIVE WITH MENTAL HEALTH

Tipperary students were honoured for getting creative with mental health at an award ceremony in Dublin recently.

Over 1,500 Irish students drew and photographed what mental health means to them following a call for entries into Mental Health Ireland's art and photography competition.

Loreto Secondary School, Clonmel, student Ceolla Dillon O'Rourke won the CEO's Choice award. Ceolla's painting of her little brother will appear in Mental Health Ireland's 2019 calendar.

St. Anne's Secondary School, Tipperary Town, student Danielle Ryan and Rockwell College's Elaine Graves received Highly Commended awards.

Issues including anxiety, stress and depression can be difficult for teenagers to talk about. Feedback from teachers and students underlined the competition's importance in opening up a space for students to think about their own mental health and those around them.

"Young people in Ireland have taken a great interest in mental health and this is very obvious from the entries we have received this year. They are not just interested in their own mental health but show interest in supporting others. This competition creates a platform for discussion that provokes and evokes a deeper conversation," CEO of Mental Health Ireland, Martin Rogan, said.

"The standard of work received was at a very high level in both categories and we were delighted to host our exhibition in Dublin City Council to showcase the top 45 entries from all over Ireland," he added.

Mental Health Ireland had the support of esteemed artist Lisa Butterly in selecting the winning entries for art and support from Rosaleen Heavin for photography.

Mind-blowing 'My Fair Lady' at Rockwell College

Rockwell College's sensational three-night musical extravaganza 'My Fair Lady' went down a treat with sold-out audiences recently.

Excellently produced by Suzanne Buttimer, who runs Rockwell College Music Academy, the production had it all - music, fabulous costumes, humour and acting.

'My Fair Lady' is a musical based on George Bernard Shaw's 'Pygmalion', with book and lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner and music by Frederick Loewe. The mid-20th century musical transcends not only social class, but also time, to offer real lessons about the interactions between men and women, as well as the educated and the masses. The story concerns Eliza Doolittle, a cockney flower girl who takes speech lessons from Professor Henry Higgins, a phonetics expert, so that she may pass as a lady. The original Broadway and London shows starred Rex Harrison and Julie Andrews.

In Rockwell's production, Poppy Kane starred as Eliza Doolittle, Sam Rapport as Professor Higgins, and Theo Martin as Colonel Pickeringeach looked as if they were born to play their parts as they carried their roles with aplomb. The accents were superb and the audiences might be forgiven for feeling that they was back in the London of 1913.

Great credit must go to Suzanne Buttimer and her team, led by John McHugh, for putting the production together in just under two months, rehearsing largely at night. In all, 50 students were involved and there were also leading lights in some of the lesser roles.

FAYE AND JAMES JET OFF TO CHINA

Rockwell College's Faye Dowling and James Doyle jetted off to Shanghai, China, recently after winning a two week scholarship to study Chinese Language and Culture.

They joined 90 other students from around Ireland and their teacher Ying Liu at Shanghai University for what is a very prestigious scholarship. James and Faye beat 70 other students in Rockwell College to claim their prize in a Chinese Language and Culture exam. They studied Chinese literature and took part in cultural activities such as calligraphy and martial arts. They also visited the the city of Hangzhou and went on a cruise on the Yellow River.

Cashel CS students visit Amneal

Cashel Community School fifth year engineering students enjoyed a very informative trip to Amneal Pharmaceuticals in Cashel recently.

Coordinated by the plant manager Gearoid McDermot, the students were given a tour of Amneal Pharmaceuticals and shown the assembly lines for making inhalers. Students also received a detailed account of what happens at the plant, and were guided in the direction of career opportunities and further areas of study.

"The students found it highly beneficial and the school hopes to further the connection with the company by linking up with them for engineering projects and further visits. The school would like to acknowledge the welcome and professionalism shown in enhancing the students education," a school spokesperson added.

Rockwell Rovers under 16s camogie team played their first match of the season in Boherlahan recently.

carefully was searching through a large bed of heather that was planted around seven years ago by the Tidy Towns group.

They keep it very well, with an annual trimming and removal of old leaves and litter. The day was sunny but still chilly and I was looking more in hope for the first queen bumblebee of the year. Of course I knew in my head that there was none around, but my heart really wanted the first insect of spring, so I persisted for a while.

Eventually I left the heather to explore a nearby hedgerow. It was planted on a wide bank and consisted mainly of hawthorn and blackthorn with a few tall ash trees. The ash trees could have been brought in by the wind or animals or originally planted for fuel.

Elderberries formed the understory of the hedge and these were deposited by birds who devour their berries. As I checked the branches, I found a few leaves that were already open. The elder was the first tree along the hedge to leaf and this can occur as early as January.

Along the sunny bank the leaves of cow parsley and broad leaved dock and were claiming their places in the sunlight. I slowly moved along to be greeted by the first dandelion flower of the year. After a winter without wildflowers, the first bloom is always very welcome. Its yellow head looked even more striking among all the withered vegetation. Dan-delions are flowers of the masses, and where there is one is located more are sure to follow.

A grassy bank I drive by most days in late spring turns a glorious yellow with dandelions. Years of cutting has given the plants shorter stems and a life that needs to be lived quickly. Fast growth is essential. If the council are busy they are left alone for a few vital weeks and soon hundreds of clocks (the seed heads of dandelions) are whipped along the road by the speeding trucks. They nod their small heads to the passing traffic and the sun. I don't mind being delayed for a few minutes as I can take in this natural wonder.

I sometimes see fields that are carpeted in dandelions and if the road is quiet I will pull in to watch. Like the heather, dandelions are excellent for bees, and a first taste of sweetness for the adult stages of bees and butterflies. After months of eating greens it must be a strange sensation to be sipping sweet nectar. The first green veined whites in my garden pay a visit to dandelions and this gives them energy to search out more flowers.

I remember reading that at this time of the year dandelions lose their grip in the soil. A winter of freezing and thawing creates space around the root. They are normally extremely tough to pull up, and the little bit of the long tap root left behind will grow into a new plant to torment the gardener.

The winged seeds travel for miles on the gentlest of currents and can end up in any nook and cranny. Cracks in pavements with a little bit of soil are quickly colonised, and they are often in the company of broad leaved plantain.

The leaves are quite bitter and add a sharpness to salads, with flowers making a good beer and wine. If you want to try the leaves, keep away from busy roads and any place that dogs might do their business.

Considered a weed by many, dandelions - if given a little space - can play a vital role for pollinators and are a simple yet effective project for Tidy Towns groups. Leaving an area of grass uncut will allow these flowers to grow and you are cutting down on the amount of work the group has to do. Queen bumblebees that emerge in early spring rely on flowers like the dandelion for pollen and nectar until more blooms arrive.

In certain circumstances, where a family member dies as a result of a wrongful act of another, an action can be taken against the wrongdoer.

This is called a fatal injury action and it most commonly comes about because of medical negligence, accidents in the workplace or road traffic accidents.

Bringing a case

Only certain people are allowed to bring a case when there has been a fatal injury. These persons are called statutory dependants and are in essence the immediate family of the deceased. Divorced spouses and cohabiting partners are included in the definition of statutory dependants. Only one case may be taken for each fatality and all statutory dependants must be named in that single case.

Investigating unnatural deaths

An inquest is held in the case of all unnatural deaths. You should be represented by your solicitor at the inquest as important information about the cause of death may be-

The inquest is presided over by a coroner (not a judge) and there may be a jury also. The findings at the inquest may have a significant impact on the potential success of a civil claim.

Legal representation at an early stage is recommended to ensure full information is collected. Often, clients do pursue a civil case after an inquest, and as a result of the facts and findings that arise. This may be against an in-surer, a public or corporate body which it appears are responsible for causing the death.

The time limit to bring a claim arising from a fatal in-

Some exceptions to this two-year rule do exist, for example, in situations where it is discovered some time after the death that it was due to negligence. Maxi Zoo's care tips for dogs

Vets from Maxi Zoo have pinpointed the most important care tips for dogs.

Brushing is essential. It promotes a healthy coat and reduces unpleasant body odour and parasite infestation. Plus, dogs enjoy it. It strengthens the bond between dog and owner. Once or twice a week is sufficient for short-haired dogs, but long-haired dogs should be brushed daily. Dogs with thick or wiry hair, like fox terriers for example, should have their coats trimmed three or four times a year to remove dead hair.

All dogs need to be brushed more frequently in the spring and autumn when the new coat grows. Rubbertoothed and horsehair brushes, as well as those with wire bristles, are suitable since they comb out loose hair from the undercoat.

These are just a few simple pointers to ensure your dog is a barking beauty all year round. Call in to your local store this April for Take Care Grooming Range Demo Days. Find out more on maxizoo.ie.

TDs come up roses for Cystic Fibrosis Ireland fundraiser

Everything was rosy in the garden for Tipperary deputies Seamus Healy and Mattie McGrath at the recent launch of Cystic Fibrosis Ireland's 65 Roses Day fundraising appeal.

The local TDs are urging the people of Tipperary to "come up roses" for Cystic Fibrosis Ireland on Friday 13th April and buy a purple rose and help raise much-needed funds for cystic fibrosis services. Volunteers will be out and about on the streets of the county selling purple roses, including at Clonmel's Showgrounds Shopping Centre and Roscrea Shopping Centre, while purple roses will also be on sale in participating Spar stores.

The 65 Roses appeal gets its name from the way children with this condition are often first taught to say the words 'cystic fibrosis'. Apart from buying a purple rose, people can also support Cystic Fibrosis Ireland's 65 Roses Day by donating online, completing a 65 Roses challenge and texting 65 ROSES to 50300 to donate $\in 2$ [Text costs $\in 2$. Cystic Fibrosis Ireland will receive a minimum of $\in 1.80$. Service Pro-

FIBROSIS

Ireland has the highest incidence of cystic fibrosis per head of population and some of the most severe types of the condition in the world.

Almost all of Cystic Fibrosis Ireland's funding comes from public donations and organisers are hoping to raise more than €100,000 for vital cystic fibrosis services in 2018. Services funded include the development of new cystic fibrosis units, incorporating in-patient, day care and outpatient facilities, specialist cystic fibrosis multi-disciplinary posts in hospitals, patient support grants, and medical and scientific research.

Cllr. Richie Molloy welcomes grant of €338,464 for Family Carers Ireland

Tipperary councillor Richie Molloy has welcomed news that Family Carers Ireland (FCI) has been successful under the last round of Dormant Accounts funding in securing a grant of €338,464.

Cllr. Molloy, who is area manager of FCI Tipperary, has been long advocating that former carers are often forgotten about and says this particular funding will go along way to help former carers reintegrate into society.

The funding will allow FCI to roll out a number of initiatives across the country which support not only former carers, but also those who are preparing for the transition from the caring role.

The flagship programme will be FCI's nationwide 'Plan C' Programme. Family carers have already had to make one hugely significant, life altering change in their lives. Their original life trajectory, Plan A, has been derailed by the necessity to provide fulltime care to a family member. Plan B. The totality of a carer's role and responsibility mean that they rarely have the space to plan for the time that their caring role will end, Plan C. This was designed in response to feedback from carers regarding the difficulties of transitioning from the caring role, and adjusting to new circumstances. For many, it means re-entry to the workforce; for others, adapting to new roles later in life; and for some becoming more involved in activities they could not focus on while caring. The goal of the Plan C project is to give carers the space and structured support to consider their post-care future. Current carers and former carers will be supported to consider what life-skills they have acquired through their years of caregiving.

For some carers this will mean translating their caregiving-acquired skills into examples that will speak to prospective employers. For example, with support a carer could see that through the caring role they have become very adept at navigating bureaucracies in order to secure supports for the person they care for. This could be presented as a very attractive skill to prospective employers.

The Plan C project will also be of benefit to those carers who do not envision returning to the workplace once their caring role has ended. Many carers experience loneliness and social isolation, and the post care transition can be very difficult to navigate. Plan C will support carers to consider how they might best reintegrate with their local community. through volunteering and participa-tion. It will also support them to consider whether the Family Caring mentoring project would be appropriate for them as a way of putting their years of caring experience to further use.

It is intended that all FCI carer groups will be visited by the programme manager, to be given the chance to avail of and participate in this exciting initiative.

The mentoring and befriending project is an initiative which will also be funded, and for which regional mentoring coordinators will be recruited. These will offer training to former carers who wish to give back to their community or to put their years of care to good account by mentoring current carers, or who wish to participate in a befriending programme in their local community. also include important actions to establish relationships with employers to work toward better facilitation of carers returning to the workplace following mediumterm leave to meet caring obligations (e.g. carer's leave); to convene academic researchers in the field of life after care for an information sharing event; and to understand and support those making the unique transition(s) from the caring role required of carers for those with mental health difficulties.

Finally, it will fund counselling or life coaching sessions to former carers who would most benefit from the services in preparing for the life after care.

Snapping hip noise during running

By Tomás Ryan

Many athletes, ballet dancers and sports people experience an irritating ongoing symptom of snapping noise within their hip joint. The symptom is normally experienced when moving from seated to standing or when running when the hip joint moves from a bending motion to an extending backwards motion. This snapping sensation is known as snapping hip syndrome and is caused by the following four different dysfunctions within the complexity of the hip.

Snapping sensation or snapping sound in and around the hip joint is most likely caused by a tight hip flexor tendon called the psoas tendon, flicking against a prominent bony landmark called the lesser trochanter. The psoas can also flick against the front aspect of the hip socket known as the acetabulum. Additionally the iliofemoral ligament which connects the ball and socket of the hip joint may crisscross against the front of the hip joint, namely the head of the femur and cause this snapping noise. These hip snapping dysfunctions can be grouped together and referred to as internal hip snapping.

If the snapping noise is felt on the outer hip region it may well be caused by a tight tensor fascia latae (TFL) hip muscle and the section of the gluteal maximus muscle slipping over the over bony surface of the thigh called the greater trochanter bone. This phenomenon of snapping is known as external snapping because if occurs on the outside of the hip joint.

Furthermore, hip snapping syndrome can be caused by the iliopsoas hip flexor tendon snapping over the bony landmark of the rim of the hip socket known as the iliopectineal eminence.

Finally, the snapping may result from tears to the labral cartilage in acetabulum socket of the hip joint. Trauma or ongoing degeneration would have caused this labral degeneration and very often additional symptoms such as pain on hip rotation will be present. This labral cartilage snapping is known as intra-articular snapping because it happens within the hip joint.

Diagnosing which one of the four mechanisms is causing the snapping is important and is achieved through matching symptoms with hip examination. Specific manual release of the iliopsoas, gluteus maximus and TFL muscle coupled with specific hip stretching and strengthening programme is essential. Finally, to prevent recurrence we should improve how the athlete moves such as their running or dancing technique using 2D and 3D analysis.

The Famine

The final sign in the Marlfield Heritage Way series has been erected to remember the famine years in Ireland. In 1847, 500 people died in Clonmel and many thousands were kept alive by the work of the un-sung heroes who daily cooked and distributed soup, bread and porridge to help hold body and soul together. The work of these unpaid and forgotten heroes who gave of their time, health and often their fortune in the service of their fellow man, woman and child deserves more than a brief mention in the history of that dreadful period. When reading the description on the lectern sign at the St Patrick's Well cross roads, a minutes reflection would be appropriate in remembrance.

Tipperary Musical Society's pirates set sail at the Excel

Pirates of Penzance was the very first musical ever staged by Tipperary Musical Society back in 1947 and again in 1982 when the society reformed. Coincidentally, the director that year was Michael O'Donoghue who also directed this year's production. While perhaps not the most straight forward plot ever, this somewhat farcical and witty story of Pirates of Penzance was wonderfully played out by the members of Tipperary Musical Society.

The entertainment began before the curtain went uponce inside the newly refurbished Excel foyer, we were greeted by both pirate and policeman, who had cast aside their rivalries to welcome the incoming audience. Once we had taken our seats in the front row of the balcony, my pint-sized comrades (aged seven and nine) were tickled pink to see the orchestra decked out in pirate and maiden garb.

Tipperary Musical Society has a wealth of talent to choose from and front line was particularly well cast. Newcomers to the society -Emmet Donlon and Sinead O'Donovan - were superb in their roles as Frederic and Mabel respectively, while society stalwart Deirdre Ryan gave another stellar performance as Frederic's nursemaid Ruth.

The society were delighted to welcome back Cathal O'Donoghue and John Murphy - both gave outstanding and highly entertaining performances as Major General Stanley and the Pirate King. Aidan O'Connell (Sergeant of Police) and his band of ruddyfaced policemen drew huge laughs from the audience in Act Two, while Jack Sharpe (Samuel), Olwyn Grogan (Edith), Siobhan Scanlon (Kate) and Alma Quinn (Isobel) gave wonderful performances in their supporting roles.

It would be remiss of me not to mention the chorus and in this particular case, what a chorus they were! Under the expert tutelage of Helen Colbert and Dermot O'Dwyer, both leads and chorus were finely tuned and effortlessly delivered four and five part harmonies throughout. A special mention must go to 'Hail Poetry' in Act One, sung acapella by a chorus of 40 plus.

Choreographer Miriam Ball did a fantastic job with the choreography as policeman and pirate, and maiden and Major General moved seamlessly around the stage. The choreography was very much in keeping with the era and stereotype of each group and was particularly well thought out by the choreographer and executed by a fantastically able cast and chorus.

Huge congratulations to director Michael O'Donoghue and Tipperary Musical Society for delivering a highly entertaining production of Pirates of Penzance.

Grange National School board of management and parents association, Grange Development Association, Grange Community Council, Grange Tidy Villages and Grange Community and Text Alert joined forces to organise the fundraiser, which was a resounding success.

The day started with a warm-up led by Bernie Connolly and then the starting bell was rung by Sarah and Liam Kelly who are siblings of Tomás. An estimated 500 men, women and children began the 5k route which went from Grange to Ballindoney, Loughryan and then back to Grange.

All the children who completed the run were given an Easter chocolate lollipop and were greeted by the Easter bunny and Big Bird on their return. Re-

Marie Liston and Nancy Phelan.

Protesters call for horse warden

A crowd of over 250 people gathered in Clonmel last Thursday to protest at recent incidents of horse cruelty in the town and county and to call for the appointment of a horse warden.

They marched from Irishtown to Tipperary County Council offices led by two beautiful rescue ponies, Beyonce and Spirit.

They all signed and delivered letters to Tipperary County Council.They were joined by Mayor Catherine Carey, who has highlighted cases of horse cruelty in recent months.

"What do we want, a horse warden. No excuse for animal abuse," marchers chanted.

More protests will follow and a national protest is on the cards for October. "All we want is for the laws to be upheld and enforced. A horse warden would help greatly in getting the job done. We want no more cruelty or unnecessary cruelty," a spokesperson said.

Ned O'Brien and Johnny Casey.

Munster four-in-a-row for Carrick-on-Suir CBS

CBS SECONDARY SCHOOL 3 SCOIL MHUIRE AND ÌDE 2

SOUTH TIPP TODAY

Shane McCormack's under 15 Carrick-on-Suir CBS Secondary School team capped off another great season by defeating a strongly fancied Scoil Mhuire and Ìde, Newcastle West, side in the Munster Minor Trophy final at Cullen/Lattin FC last week.

The game proved to be very entertaining with plenty of goalmouth action at both ends. Newcastle West settled better and were gaining good ground but could find no way past CBS's well-disciplined back line of Reece O'Mahony, Dylan Casey, Oscar Geoghan and Paudie O'Shea.

CBS were finding it difficult to retain much possession in the early stages, but an early goal from Evan Foley settled the nerves and allowed them to get into the game. A great kick from Kieran Barry in the CBS goal skimmed off a Newcastle West player and deflected out to Evan Foley on the right hand side, who stormed into the box and smashed the ball into the roof of the net.

Braedon Wheeler was starting to be dominant in midfield, with Padraig Fahey and Neil Moriarty getting more space to control the game. Francis Roche set up a chance for Braedon Wheeler which drifted wide. Paudie O'Shea was next to try his luck after a darting run but was also off target. Tyler Dunphy was causing plenty of problems down the left wing and as Newcastle West doubled up on him more space was being created.

The free count was very much against CBS and as a result pressure built up again as Newcastle West pushed for an equaliser before half time. The Limerick side came close following a goalmouth scramble but Dylan Casey smothered the attempt at the near post.

CBS extended their lead on the stroke of half time. Braedon Wheeler played a great ball into the channel for Francis Roche, who cut into the box and squared a perfect ball to the on running Evan Foley who finished well at the far post. CBS were put under a lot pressure in the second half, but Jack Hegarty came in to firm up the defence with Ronaldo Kivankufi also entering to put pressure on the Newcastle West backline.

Within seconds, Ronaldo Kivankufi had his first shot which drifted just wide and moments later he had another attempt well held by the keeper.

Newcastle West applied pressure again and a great tackle from Oscar Geoghan kept them out. However, with 18 minutes remaining the Newcastle West pressure paid off as they pulled one back.

The CBS charges showed character and moments later Kieran Barry split the defence once more and Ronaldo Kivankufi was on hand to jump above the on rushing keeper and head the ball into the top corner.

CBS were looking comfortable heading for full time before Newcastle West pulled another goal back to set up a frantic finish. Newcastle West threw everyone forward as the final whistle never seemed like coming, but Glen Power and Danny Murphy gave CBS some control in possession. After yet another free against CBS in the sixth minute of stoppage time was cleared, the final whistle blew to the delight of the entire squad.

"It is a fantastic achievement for the school to win this competition four years in a row and a great credit to this team and the teams before them. Our thanks to the clubs who have supported us - Carrick United and Piltown AFC for the use of their facilities over the season," manager Shane McCormack said.

CBS squad: Kieran Barry, Reece O'Mahony, Paudie O'Shea, Oscar Geoghan, Casey Dvlan (captain), Braedon Wheeler, Padraig Fahey, Neil Moriarty, Evan Foley, Francis Roche, Tyler

Dunphy, Danny Murphy. Kivankufi, Jack Ronaldo Hegarty, Glen Power, Liam Eachthigheirn, Senan Campbell, Sean Power, Danny Prout, Karl McCoy, Ryan Comerford, Sean O'Meara, Daryl Hanrahan, Kieran O'Donnell, William Sullivan, Adam Keane, Bill Nolan, Larry O'Shea, Ger Hahessy, Rvan Nolan. Cashel Community School crowned Munster League champions

CASHEL COMMUNITY SCHOOL 3-12 ST. AUGUSTINE'S COLLEGE DUNGARVAN 2-10.

Community Cashel School's senior camogie team rounded off a fantastic year by beating St. Augustine's College from Dungarvan, County Waterford, in the Munster League final at Leahy Park, Cashel.

Captained by Ciara Moloney, Cashel got off to a flying start with Caoimhe Perdue and Aine O'Dwyer showing their experience in midfield and Sorcha Ryan was very strong at centre back. The physicality of the game was relentless as the girls from both sides battled hard to get the upper hand.

Cashel came out on top by half time thanks to goals fromLeah Baskin and Aoife Linehan, who had worked tirelessly in the half forward line. The scoreline stood at 2-6 to 1-5.

The second half was riveting to watch, with both Cashel and St. Augustine's picking off some incredible scores. With the gap reduced to just a goal for a large part of the second half, the Cashel girls had to battle hard to maintain the lead, with Katelyn Fleming holding strong at full-back.

In the closing minutes, Lauren Horgan - who had already made three fantastic saves in the goal - trapped the sliotar dead on her hurley from a 21 yard free and cleared her lines. This was a massive boost in confidence for Cashel and the ever dependable Caoimhe Perdue burst out of the half back line, soloing the length of the field and put the ball over the bar. This was followed by a fantastic point from Karin Blair, giving Cashel a more comfortable cushion as the clock wound down.

This was a fantastic way to end the year for many of the Cashel students, who already won Munster honours in ladies football earlier this vear.

Clancy Festival

The incredible sight of yarn bombing returns to Carrick -on-Suir this year for the Clancy Brothers Festival Art Trail on the June bank holiday.

Last seen in Carrick-on-Suir on the 2013 Art Trail, yarn bombing is pure artistic expression in the spirit of beautification and fun, and brings colour to urban areas by clothing trees in bright woollen pullovers. With plans to yarn bomb more extensively than before, and with the support of the Lions Club and the Carrick Business Centre, the Art Trail is looking for volunteer knitters. Individuals, community groups, clubs and schools are all welcome. All you need are some basic skills, brightly coloured wool, needles and your imagination. If you can knit or crochet a patch, you can yarn bomb a tree. And if you don't know how to knit/crochet and would like to be involved, you can learn at special urban knitting workshops at Seán Healy Library on Monday mornings at 10am. The finished knitted masterpieces will go on display

throughout Carrick-on-Suir in the week running up to the June bank holiday weekend. Wool and supplies for knitters will be provided, but donations of wool will be gladly accepted at the library.

Suggested dimensions for knitted pieces and further updates will be available in the library and posted up on 'Tudor Artisan Hub' and 'Clancy Brothers Festival Art Trail' Facebook pages. Knitters can drop off their completed pieces to the Tudor Artisan Hub or Carrick-on-Suir Library any time before May 18th. The Art Trail is also seeking new, emerging and established artists and photographers for solo or group exhibitions to participate in the Clancy Brothers Festival Art Trail 2018 from Friday 1st June to Monday 4th June. The deadline for registration is Friday 13th April. Contact tudorartisanhub@gmail.com, drop in to the Tudor Artisan Hub or call 051-640921 or 086-2560609.

Walk

Knockmealdown Active's promotion of St. Declan's Way saw over 250 people walk the Cashel to Cahir stage of the route recently. The group have been promoting the Irish Camino 100km walk along the St Declan's pilgrim path for many years and a lot of work has been done locally for walkers along the route. 'The planning for this day doesn't happen by chance and many people have persevered to date to promote the Cashel to Ardmore pilgrim path. Cahir Tidy Towns, as well as Cashel Tidy Towns, have both constructed focal points in their towns and the St. Declan's Grove in Cahir now comes into a league of its own. Those who donated to this project can now be proud of being part of a fantastic venture. This was a big undertaking by the group who had the vision some years ago to promote the route and be ready for the new Camino," said Cllr. Andy Moloney.

Deer running wild

A motion put before the March monthly meeting of Clonmel Municipal District by Cllr. Andy Moloney will see more signage about stray deer being erected to help motorists. Cllr. Moloney had been contacted by residents in the Kilcoran, Cahir area about the amount of deer wandering along the R639 between Tincurry and Glengarra. "There have been several collisions this year so far with deers and motorists have written off or badly damaged cars as a result. A lot of deer have been killed also but a lot more have limped away badly injured. While the cost of damage to vehicles continues to rise, we are lucky that we are not dealing with a human fatality instead," Cllr. Andy Moloney said. Cllr. Moloney's said that although the motion may not stop the carnage, it will help reduce the number of accidents and make people aware of the issue.

Country Market

Continues every Friday in the community hall (beside Cahir post office) from 9-11am.

An art exhibition by New Inn's Sue Bickley and Cashel's Damien McCarrons is free to view until 6th May. Both work with oils and silk. Sue also runs an art group in Cahir.
